On the semantics of resource management in programming languages : modelling destructors and mutable borrowing with linear translations